

INFORMED-CONSENT- LABIAPLASTY

INSTRUCTIONS

This is an informed-consent document that has been prepared to help inform you concerning Labiaplasty surgery(s), its risks, and alternative treatment(s).

It is important that you read this information carefully and completely. Please initial each page, indicating that you have read the page and sign the consent for surgery as proposed by your plastic surgeon.

INTRODUCTION

The surgical treatment of redundant or excess labial tissue is a procedure frequently performed by plastic surgeons. The redundancy may be a result of chronic irritation, exogenous androgenic hormones in infancy, congenital, or manual stretching. This may result in embarrassment, loss of self-esteem, poor hygiene, and interference with sexual intercourse. Plastic surgery may improve the appearance and contour of the labia. There are many different techniques available for labiaplasty surgery. Your surgeon will discuss the recommended

Labiaplasty is an elective surgical operation. Alternative treatment would consist of use of creams and meticulous Risks and potential complications are associated with alternative forms of treatment.

RISKS of LABIAPLASTY SURGERY-

Every surgical procedure involves a certain amount of risk, and it is important that you understand the risks involved. An individual's choice to undergo a surgical procedure is based on the comparison of the risk to potential benefit. Although the majority of patients do not experience these complications, you should discuss each of them with your plastic surgeon to make sure you understand the risks, potential complications, and consequences of the surgical

Bleeding- It is possible, though unusual, to experience a bleeding episode during or after surgery. Should postoperative bleeding occur, it may require emergency treatment to drain accumulated blood (hematoma). Do not take any aspirin or anti-inflammatory medications for ten days before surgery, as this may contribute to a greater risk of Infection- Infection is unusual after surgery. Should an infection occur, additional treatment including antibiotics or

Scarring- All surgery leaves scars, some more visible than others. Although good wound healing after a surgical procedure is expected, abnormal scars may occur both within the skin and in the deeper tissues. Scars may be unattractive and of different color than the surrounding skin. There is the possibility of visible marks from sutures used to close the wound. Scars may also limit motion and function. Additional treatments including

Change in skin sensation- You may experience a change in the sensitivity of the skin of your labia. Permanent loss of sensation can occur after labiaplasty surgery. You may experience a change in sensation during intercourse including hypersensitive, hyposensitive or numbness. You may also experience chronic pain

Delayed healing- Wound disruption or delayed wound healing is possible. Some areas of the labial skin may not heal normally and/or may take a long time to heal. It is even possible to have loss of skin. This may require frequent dressing changes or further surgery to remove the non-healed tissue.

Smokers have a greater risk of skin loss and wound healing complications.

Damage to deeper structures- Deeper structures such as nerves, blood vessels and muscles may be damaged during the course of surgery. The potential for this to occur varies according to where on the body surgery is being performed. Injury to deeper structures may be temporary or permanent.

Unsatisfactory result- There is the possibility of an unsatisfactory result from the surgery. Surgery may result in unacceptable visible deformities, loss of function, wound disruption, skin death and loss of sensation. You may be disappointed with the results of surgery.

Allergic reactions- In rare cases, local allergies to tape, suture material, or topical preparations have been reported. Systemic reactions, which are more serious, may result from drugs used during surgery and prescription medicines. Allergic reactions may require additional treatment.

Surgical anesthesia- Both local and general anesthesia involve risk. There is the possibility of complications, injury, and even death from all forms of surgical anesthesia or sedation.

ADDITIONAL SURGERY NECESSARY

In some situations, it may not be possible to achieve optimal results with a single surgical procedure. Multiple procedures may be necessary. Should complications occur, additional surgery or other treatments may be necessary. Even though risks and complications occur infrequently, the risks cited are the ones that are particularly associated with Labioplasty surgery. Other complications and risks can occur but are even more uncommon. The practice of medicine and surgery is not an exact science. Although good results are expected, there cannot be any guarantee or warranty expressed or implied on the results that may be obtained.

FINANCIAL RESPONSIBILITIES

The cost of surgery involves several charges for the services provided. The total includes fees charged by your doctor, the cost of surgical supplies, laboratory tests, and possible outpatient hospital charges, depending on where the surgery is performed. Depending on whether the cost of surgery is covered by an insurance plan, you will be responsible for necessary co-payments, deductibles, and charges not covered. Additional costs may occur should complications develop from the surgery. Secondary surgery or hospital day-surgery charges involved with

Informed-consent documents are used to communicate information about the proposed surgical treatment of a disease or condition along with disclosure of risks and alternative forms of treatment(s). The informed-consent process attempts to define principles of risk disclosure that should generally meet the needs of most patients in

However, informed-consent documents should not be considered all inclusive in defining other methods of care and risks encountered. Your plastic surgeon may provide you with additional or different information which is based on all the facts in your particular case and the state of medical knowledge.

Informed-consent documents are not intended to define or serve as the standard of medical care. Standards of medical care are determined on the basis of all of the facts involved in an individual case and are subject to change as scientific knowledge and technology advance and as practice patterns evolve.
